

International architectural competition will change Kisa Travel Center Young designers from 21 European countries get the chance. The task is to sketch a future look and content for the site at Kisa Travel Center. - An interesting task, given that it is centrally located and involves many aspects of society, "says Ture Goransson, Planning Secretary in Kinda Municipality. A lift for Kisa A united working committee of the municipal council decided on Monday to spend 830 000 SEK in an architectural competition (see box) for area. The goal is to increase the attractiveness ytterligare Kisa center. - The price includes a series of events, seminars and some 20 proposals. Had we done this ourselves it would have cost twice as much. The goal is to create a pleasant meeting place, in general, and for travel by train and bus, "says Ture Goransson. Components that architects have to start from is that the area provides space for an activity center and a fire station. It sounds crowded? - Key feature is that the architects' creativity to solve this. Special account The conditions determined in more detail in January. It is clear that architects can expect to take into account the special building style and architecture that exists in Kisa. Partly at the market square, and along Main Street, according Ture Goransson. - There should be reflected in the proposals. The winning idea appointed in late autumn 2009. Kinda Municipality is prepared to buy the area of Jernhusen for one million kronor. The crucial decision taken by City Council on 26 January.